STATE RY. COMMISSION WILL FORCE BUILDING OF MILL STREET CROSSING THIS YEAR

PROTECT PUBLIC AT DANGER POINT

New Law Gives Commission Authority to Act on Own Initiative if the City Does Not Do So

MORRIS GETS ASSURANCE

Senator Visits Commission and is Told Body Will Act at End of the Present Calendar

The state railroad commission will, of its own initiative if necessary, take up the matter of compelling the La Crosse City Railway company and the C. M. & St. P. Ry. to provide a safe crossing at Mill street, at the entrance to the north side. Investigation will be made by the commission as to whether an overhead crossing or a tunnel is most desirable.

Has New Authority
The commission's authority for this step was conferred by the "Crossing bill" which was passed at this session of the legislature. When the Mill street crossing matter was taken up by ex-Mayor Anderson, the commission examined the law and found that it lacked authority to compel action. It recommended to the companies that certain steps be taken, but its recommendation was ignored. It then caused a bill conferring upon it the necessary authority to be introduced in the legislature, and this bill is now a law.

Morris is Assured
Senator Thomas Morris, before leaving Madison, called upon the commission, and was assured that the matter will be attended to at an early date. The law gives the city the right to start action by petition and complaint before the commission, and in the absence of this, it gives the commission the right to act on its own initiative. Senator Morris was told that in case the city did not take the necessary steps to begin proceedings, the commission would take independent action as soon as its present calendar is concluded.

MURDER MYSTERY IS REVEALED IN TUNNEL

CHICAGO, June 12.—At the bottom of a waterhole in the abandoned Illinois tunnel, a workman this afternoon found the body of a man. The police have two theories regarding his death. One is that he lost his way in the tunnel and starved to death, and the other explanation suggests murder. Directly above the place where the body lay is a shaft extending 500 feet up to the street. The upper end of this shaft is in a saloon. The opening is covered by a dumb waiter.

It is possible, the police say, that the victim was murdered and the body disposed of by being thrown down the shaft. A deep cut in the back of the head makes the murder theory the more plausible.

NO PRIZE FIGHTS, SAYS DAVIDSON

MADISON, Wis., June 12.—(Special.)—Gov. Davidson said at noon that he would veto the Brew boxing bill this afternoon. The veto is prepared and will be delivered to the legislature before 3 o'clock. He believes the bill would open the way for legalized prize fights in Wisconsin.

ARMY DEFENDS SALOON

NEW YORK, June 12.—"We saw nothing wrong with the saloon except that women were drinking and dancing there," is the remarkable testimony given before the supreme court by the two Salvation Army women and missionary collectors in a suit to revoke the license of a liquor house yesterday. This is the first case on record where religious workers have aided a saloon when it was attempted to close the place.

DYNAMITE CHURCH
LEETONIA, Ohio, June 12.—Sheriff Davidson and the county commissioners have posted a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of those responsible for the dynamiting of the Presbyterian church here last night. This is the second dynamiting within a week.

INQUIRY ON DENS, "OUT OF ORDER"

Mayor Raps Down Aldermen Who Ask About Existence of Disorderly Houses

NO ANSWER VOUCHSAFED

Council Then Proceeds to Kill Police Patrol and Consider Other Things

Prompted by the city attorney, who sat at his right elbow, Mayor Ori Sorensen last night rapped down Aldermen Rose and Joadade, and declared them out of order when they protested at a report from the chief of police on the ground that it acknowledged the presence of houses of ill-fame in the city. Arrests made from the places last month were all "frequenters."

Alderman Marvin, of the committee on police, presented the report and before it was received by the council, Alderman Rose demanded to know where the institutions, from which these "frequenters" had been arrested, were located, and why the proprietors had not also been "pinched." He said that he understood that all places of this nature had been removed by the Anderson administration, but added that he of course did not know how the new mayor stood in regard to such matters.

The mayor looked embarrassed, but, fortunately for Alderman Marvin, who seemed unprepared to answer questions, the city attorney came to the rescue by telling the mayor in a loud aside, that the alderman from the Thirteenth ward was "out of order." He was promptly pronounced so by the chair and rapped down.

Everything proceeded smoothly now, until Alderman Joadade had an opportunity to talk. He arose to his feet, prepared to make a speech of protest against the action of the mayor in rapping down Alderman Rose. He didn't get very far, before the city attorney was seen to nudge "his honor" and again the words "He's out of order" were whispered. The gavel sounded and Alderman Joadade, discomfited, sat down.

Police Regulate Social Evil
Chief of Police John B. Webber said today that the three "frequenters" mentioned in his report to the mayor and common council last night, were girls who together with three men were taken from a private dwelling house on the south side. The charge of being "frequenters" was placed against them, because it was a convenient one, and they were willing to plead guilty to it. They were fined in court and then ordered to leave the city. They have since removed.

"There are no houses of ill-fame in the city, that I know of," said the chief today. "At least they are not running openly."

"That order of Dr. Anderson's still stands," said the mayor today when interviewed. "I do not know that there are any houses of ill-fame in the city—at least I do not think there are," he added. Mr. Sorensen said he had given no order to the police revoking the Anderson order.

Alderman Rose led in the killing of the proposed automobile patrol for the police department. He said that the administration had promised the voters an economical rule, and he thought that the purchase of a $2,700 automobile was not economical, when it was taken into consideration that the police had so little use for a conveyance that the last horse they had owned died from lack of exercise.

The resolution was voted down, and Alderman Marvin presented a new one, providing for the purchase of a team of horses and suitable patrol wagon for the department. This was referred to the committee on finance, police and the city attorney.

Bridge passes were altered permitting the free tickets during the summer months to be used after 5 o'clock in the morning, instead of 6 as heretofore. The question of repairing a fire engine at station No. 1 was referred to the finance committee.

JUDGE REID HAS EXCITING CRUISE

Runs Perilous Gauntlet of Ferry Wires in Fog and Goes 200 Miles in Launch Yesterday

Incidental to making a motor boat record by traveling alone two hundred miles in his fast launch, the Black Beauty, yesterday, Judge Ray S. Reid, state waterway commissioner, unconsciously passed through a series of perils which made his hair stand upright when he realized the narrow margin by which he escaped disaster.

Judge Reid started from Chaska on the Minnesota river at 5:30 yesterday morning in the Black Beauty and made La Crosse at 9 o'clock last night, a distance of over two hundred miles. From the time of his trip, which is sixteen hours, must be deducted a four hours' stop at Red Wing, Minn., leaving his net time for the trip twelve hours.

Escapes Fatal Wires.
When Judge Reid started in the morning a heavy fog obscured all objects on the river. The water was deep and the banks clean cut, however, and the commissioner turned his boat loose and came down with the current at high speed. When the fog lifted he discovered that every five miles ferry wires crossed the river, and in a number of cases where they were down, as is true during the operation of the ferry, they came breast high as he sat in the boat, and it is necessary to bend low in order to escape them.

Fog Obscured Danger.
Inquiry showed him that he had passed several of these before the fog lifted, and that only the fortunate fact that they were elevated above the water during the night time saved him from a serious if not fatal accident. At the speed which his boat attained, contact with one of the wires would certainly have severed a man's head from his body.

FRENCH QUAKE IS FATAL TO SCORES

Seven Smaller Towns Are Wrecked and Some Large Cities Are Also Badly Shaken Up

PARIS, June 12.—Deputy Baron received a telegram this afternoon from the quake region in southern France saying that there are seventy known dead.

MARSEILLES, June 12.—Seven hamlets in the vicinity of Lafare and St. Cannat were practically destroyed last night by an earthquake which gave a score or more of Southern French towns a hard wrench.

Every report coming in today increases the seriousness of the quake and it is now certain that the death toll will be heavy. A number of villages are in ruins and no accurate statement of the dead can be made until the wreckage is cleared away. Estimates are that between fifty and a hundred persons have been killed.

Reports from Lambec a short distance north of here, say that fifteen bodies have been recovered from the ruins of twenty houses there. Twenty houses were wrecked in the village of St. Cannat and ten persons killed. In Lafare there are twelve known dead. Reports of deaths are coming in constantly and the total may be larger.

The rest of the shocks was felt at 9:15 and from then on until nearly 11 o'clock there were tremors, slight and heavy in various towns. Enghuilles, Aix and Toulon were some of the towns that felt the quake.

The earthquake was also felt in several of the larger cities including Cannes, Nice and Marseilles. Hundreds of people in these towns were thrown into a panic and there was grave apprehension until daylight revealed the fact that no damage has resulted.

Troops have been dispatched to the towns that suffered the heaviest.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 12.—"Toronto Jimmy" Knapp, the king of the yeggmen, wanted for safe-blowing in twenty-six cities, was rescued from jail at Williamstown, Ky., by his friends.

OFFICIAL REPORT ON GAME WARDENS

Governor Has Now Been Given Certified Copies of Evidence and Must Act—Stone's Term Out

MADISON, Wis., June 12. The first official steps were taken today toward accomplishing one of the important intentions of the joint senatorial investigating committee, when certified copies of the testimony of State Game Warden Stone and those of his deputies were shown to have received money from the Stephenson fund were laid before Gov. Davidson and Attorney General Gilbert. At the same time, copies of the same testimony were furnished to the state civil service commission showing the measure of political activity of which those deputies were guilty. The commission has power to remove any deputy game warden found guilty of violations of the civil service law, of whom there are at least a score.

The testimony of Henry Overbeck, who served as chief game warden during the closing years of Gov. La Follette's administration, was also given to the governor and attorney general. Overbeck, it will be remembered, testified that he charged the expense of political trips to the state while in office.

The fact that the governor and attorney general are now "officially" informed of what they have long known is due to a resolution adopted by the investigating committee just before it ceased its labors, the resolution carrying merely the recommendation that the state officials take such action as they may see fit.

It will be unnecessary for the governor to order the removal of Game Warden Stone, even if he is so minded, as Stone's term expires some time this month and it is understood he is not a candidate for reappointment. Two candidates for the place are in the field in the persons of "Office" Deputy A. G. Schauer of Kewaunee, a former assemblyman, and W. C. Haslem of Appleton. Schauer is backed by a large number of assemblymen and seems to be the lead. Haslem testified before the investigating committee that he worked in Stephenson's behalf.

JUDGE RAY S. REID TO GO TO EUROPE WITH THE NAT'L WATERWAY COMMISSION

BIG LINER WRECKED PASSENGERS SAVED

Batavia and Princess Irene Take All Safely From Cunarder Slavonia Off Florez

VESSEL POUNDING TO RUIN

Cause of Wreck a Mystery, But Captain Wires Today She Will Be a Total Loss

LONDON, June 12.—A gallant race by the Prinzess Irene of the North German Lloyd line and the Batavia of the Hamburg-American Line was all that saved the 600 souls aboard the Cunard steamer Slavonia, wrecked Thursday noon off the south coast of Flores Island in the Azores according to dispatches received by the Cunard offices today.

When the Prinzess Irene and the Batavia reached the Slavonia in answer to the latter's distress calls, the Cunarder was rapidly filling and the passengers were in a wild state of fright.

The Prinzess Irene got a wireless from the disabled ship Thursday noon while 180 miles from the scene of the wreck. The captain of the rinzess Irene ordered the vessel forward at top speed. Enroute to the Slavonia, the Batavia was picked up and informed of the need of aid and she, too, joined in the race. The reliever ships reached the Slavonia Thursday night.

The Liner Slavonia went aground and is breaking 2 miles off the south shore of Florez Island, one of the Azores. Friends and relatives thronged the offices of the Cunard line today. They were met by the officers with the news that every passenger of the Slavonia had been taken off by the Prinzess Irene, the North German Lloyd liner, and were now well on their way to Naples.

When the Cunard line office opened this morning there was a rush for admittance. Relatives of the 300 Italian steerage passengers, talking wildly and gesticulating earnestly, had been waiting for hours for news of the vessel. It took some hard work on the part of the officials of the company to persuade them that all was well with the Slavonia's passengers.

The 110 first cabin passengers on the Slavonia were mostly tourists from the west and south and telegrams this morning were received from all over the country at the offices of the line. All telegrams were answered promptly with the assurance of the safety of the passengers inquired about.

Vessel is Doomed
All hope for the saving of the vessel was given up by the Cunard line today. It is understood that she is in an exposed position on a rock reef where the beating waves will soon break her up. No explanation for the grounding of the liner has been received but it is thought that thick weather which has prevailed in the latitude of the Azores for the past two weeks was responsible for the wreck. Three hundred steerage passengers of the Slavonia were taken off the stranded vessel before Captain Von Letten-Peterson of the Prinzess Irene had removed the first class cabin travelers by the crew of the Hamburg-American liner Batavia. The Cunard line is assured today that both the Batavia and the Prinzess Irene have plenty of room to carry the persons taken from the Slavonia.

Wreck a Mystery
The news of the wreck was received in a cablegram from Captain Peterson. He said the Slavonia would be a total loss.

It is known from the reports made by the captains of the two other liners that the weather was almost clam at the time of the wreck.

So soon as the Slavonia struck, distress signals were displayed and answered by the Batavia. The two ships had run on the same schedule nearly all the way across and were close together when the accident occurred. When the crash came there was a panic among the passengers. They were quickly reassured by the officers.

AT THE REQUEST OF SENATOR BURTON

Latter Writes and Solicits Aid of Waterway Commissioner in European Investigation

LEAVES FOR WASHINGTON

Expects to Go there at Once and Will Give Aid to the National Organization

In the near future probably early next week, Judge Ray S. Reid, waterway commissioner for the state of Wisconsin, will proceed to Washington to meet Senator Burton and members of the waterway commission, from which city he will accompany them to Europe on an investigating tour, the purpose of which is to collect data relative to the European method of traffic upon navigable rivers.

Report Interested Burton
Following the recent annual report of Judge Reid, Senator Burton showed great interest in the position which he assumed, and asked at that time whether, in case it was desired, Commissioner Reid would be willing to render his services to the national commission. Judge Reid said today that he would gladly do so.

Today Judge Reid is in receipt of a letter from the senator asking him to accompany them on their European trip. The letter also states that Judge Reid's assistance will be welcomed in a large amount of work which will have to be done by them in this country, and that the commission was desirous of taking advantage of his experience and previous investigations. Senator Burton also suggested that the official title of Judge Reid will be a key that will enable the commission to unlock many secrets which will be closed to them.

To Aid Commission
Judge Reid said today that he would place himself at the command of the commission and render whatever service he could to them in their labors.

"BOB" AND THE TARIFF

The Milwaukee Journal, which has published Senator La Follette's speeches and comment during the tariff fight fully, has this to say about the Wisconsin solon:

In the fight that he is making against the inequities of Payne-Aldrich tariff legislation, Senator La Follette is winning praise all along the line, even from political foes. It is very significant that a number of Wisconsin papers, which for years have done nothing except to condemn him and his course, are going out of their way to say kind things regarding his war upon tariff injustice. Newspapers throughout the country, moreover, some of them conservative, recognize the ability and consistency of his present fight.

No fair minded man can deny that Wisconsin's senior senator is making good. He speaks for the great majority of his party, not only in Wisconsin, but throughout the country. He helped to frame the McKinley tariff bill and he knows a great deal about tariff legislation. He has made a study of changed conditions, he has unearthed the facts and figures that bear upon revision, and in debating the question he has proven to be more than a match for Aldrich and the other friends of the tariff barons. These men now realize more than ever that he is a foe to be feared.

Senator La Follette's speech last week, in which he defended himself and his politics in Wisconsin, and declared that regardless of personal consequences he would do what he deemed right, was masterful. The manner in which he countered upon Mr. Boies Penrose of Pennsylvania was as effective as anything could be. The Pennsylvania boss would probably hesitate a long time before he attempted to engage in another tilt with the Wisconsin senator.

The senate is packed with high protection republicans and even some high protection democrats. Aldrich dictates its course, Mr. La Follette's fight may be a losing one, but he will fight on and he may well view failure with equanimity if the vanquished is greater than the glory of the victor.

Incidentally, it may be noted with interest that so "regular" a republican newspaper as the St. Paul Pioneer Press recently made this pertinent remark about the tariff and tariff makers:

The most wholesome thing for congress to do at this juncture would be to adjourn for a few weeks and distribute itself among its constituents. I would learn something to its ultimate advantage, and to the advantage of the country. It would get in touch with the practically universal exasperation and disgust of the voters with the Payne bill, the Aldrich monster, and the cheap skullduggery and chicanery which have characterized the framing of the house and senate measures. But there is not the slightest hope that congress will consult its constituents. The tariff framers do not want to hear from the country. The leaders want to put their heads in the sand and imagine that there is no trouble in store for their blessed protected industries.

One doubts, however, if the talk of home people would be much of an eye opener to our congressmen. They read; they know well enough what the majority of people think about the tariff. But there are Aldrich and Payne, and t he party lash, and what can a poor man do?

A SPADE A SPADE

The Pioneer Press, discussing auto speeding, said in a recent editorial:

Judge Mulqueen, the New York justice who heard the case of William Darragh, tried for murder in the killing of a boy by running him down with an automobile, charged the jury that "the killing of a human being, unless it is excusable or justifiable, is murder in the first degree when committed by an act imminently dangerous to others and evincing a depraved mind, regardless of human life, although without premeditated design to effect the death of any individual."

It would affront a great many people who drive autos, some of them right here in La Crosse, were they told they possessed "depraved minds" yet in the mind of the New York court they do. Since Dr. Anderson's movement to check them, they have become more cautious in the down town streets. Some of our autoists, let it be understood, have always been cautious and considerate. But of late many tales of speeding have come from suburban streets, and it may be well for those who scorch to reflect that, aside from the possibility that they may be jacked up any time by the mayor of this city, a New York judge has declared that men who recklessly jeopardize human life by speeding are "depraved." It's a bad word, that word "depraved."

THE BANK GUARANTEE

Many people will have failed to observe the marvelous spread of the idea of guaranteeing bank deposits, promulgated by William Jennings Bryan in the recent campaign. News of such things comes intermittently, and the whole advance made lacks the effect of massed facts. In the Commoner Mr. Bryan recently gave the aggregate achievement along the guarantee line, summarizing his facts as follows:

The cause is growing. Oklahoma, Nebraska and Texas, now have compulsory systems for the protection of depositors in state banks. In Texas the state bank can choose between joining the compulsory system and giving individual security, but so far every bank that has acted has decided upon the guaranty system. In Kansas and South Dakota voluntary systems have been adopted, while in Colorado, Arkansas and Indiana the guaranty bill passed one branch of the legislature.

Attorney Wickersham has delivered an opinion to the effect that national banks are at liberty to insure their depositors, and insurance companies are already being organized for that purpose. The fight made last year has had its influence, and in spite of republican opposition to the plan, the protection of depositors is coming.

FIRM ARRAIGNED; SAYS NOT GUILTY

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 12.—August Carlson Firm was arraigned before Judge Andrew Holt and pleaded not guilty to the indictment in the first degree. He reserved the right, however, of withdrawing the plea before June 14, and was remanded to the county jail.

The indictment charges the firm with the murder of his nephew, John Arvid Carlson in Golden Valley, on May 31.

The self-made man generally acts as if he thought he out to take out a patent on himself.

When the kidneys are sick, Nature tells you all about it. The urine is nature's calendar. Infrequent or too frequent action; Any urinary trouble tells of kidney ills.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure all kidney ills.

La Crosse people testify to this. E. Mabie, 320 S. Seventh St., La Crosse, Wis., says: "For many years I was annoyed by the frequent passages of the kidney secretions and was unable to find relief until I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills. I procured them at Erhart's drug store and in view of my satisfactory experience, I have no hesitation in giving them my endorsement."

SCIENTISTS SCORE FALLOWS

Editor La Crosse Tribune:

I see by your good paper of the 8th inst. that Bishop Fallows has been attacking Christian Science again, and following his custom is not over careful whether his remarks are founded on fact or fiction.

When the bishop first began advocating his "Christian Psychology" he said: "We must not attack Christian Science," but he has nevertheless persistently attacked and misrepresented this system of religion and therapeutics; which he admits is growing with wonderful rapidity.

If the bishop had waited till an investigation of Mrs. Gilbert's charges had been made by the press, he would have learned from a disinterested source that Mrs. Eddy is alert and active. No one but herself derives profit from the books of which she is the author. No one is obliged to buy any of her books, and the Christian Science text book can be purchased for $3.00; it can be procured in all public libraries in this country and in many foreign countries.

Many of the Christian Science reading rooms, of which there are several hundred in the United States alone, have circulating libraries and in all of them can all literature of this denomination as well as Bibles be read without money and without price.

Trusting that you will be kind enough to publish this brief statement, so that any false impressions that the Chicago dispatch may have created, will be corrected. I am Most sincerely yours,

JAMES PHELPS.

WHAT A WOMAN WILL NOT DO

There is nothing a woman would do to regain her lost beauty. She ought to be fully as zealous in preserving her good looks. The herb drink called Lane's Family Medicine or Lane's Tea is the most efficient aid in preserving a beautiful skin, and will do more than anything else to restore the roses to faded cheeks. STATE DEPARTMENT INTERFERES IN INTERNATIONAL MARRIAGE

MADISON, Wis., June 12.—(Special.)—The fight in the legislature over the abolition of the municipal court at Hurley, came to naught. As Senator Sanborn's bill was originally introduced it provided for the complete abolition of the court, the object being to throw Judge Griff Thomas out of a job.

Good luck never hangs around a man long enough to become tiresome.

Wouldn't Wake Him

A high street small boy, about 5 years old, was taken to an entertainment by his mother the other evening. It was 10:30 o'clock when they reached home and the little fellow was very tired and sleepy. He undressed quickly and hopped into bed. "George," said his mother sternly, "I'm surprised at you."

"Why, mamma?" he asked.

"You didn't say your prayers. Get right out of that bed and say them."

"Aw mamma," came from the tired youngster, "what's the use of wakin' the Lord up at this time of night to hear me pray?"—Denver Post.

Progress

"Mister, you're wasting time sketching that old ruined bridge."

"Indeed?"

"Yes there's a fine new steel bridge just a mile further on."

Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Alabama Crook

Oliver D. Street, district attorney of northern Alabama, was talking in Birmingham about a notorious criminal.

"The man," said Mr. Street, "was very resourceful in crime, very resourceful and ready. Once, in a restaurant, after a hearty 35-cent dinner, he laid a battered dinky half dollar on the cashier's desk. The cashier ginged it with frowning suspicion. It looked pretty bad."

"It's a very painful thing, spoke up the crook, 'for me to part with that half, friend. That half saved my life in the battle of Shiloh. The dent you're noticin' is where a bullet struck and glanced off. Otherwise I'd have been killed. The half was in my breast pocket, you know, right over the heart."

"Let's see," said the cashier, "what year was Shiloh? It was in 1862, wasn't it?"

"Right you are, friend, 1862," the crook agreed.

"And this coin," said the cashier, "is dated 1881, and it's a counterfeit besides."

The crook smiled impatiently.

"Well, of course it's a counterfeit," said he. "Naturally. How could I have had an 1881 coin back in 1862 if it hadn't been a counterfeit?"

"And the cashier was so confused that he gave up 15 cents change and let the fellow go before he got his wits together again."—New York Tribune.

Private's Prize Bothered Him

Gen. Sir O'Moore Creagh, who has been definitely selected to follow Lord Kitchener in the supreme command in India toward the close of the present year, has served for the past two years or so as military secretary at the India office, where his knowledge of the dependency and its military problems has been well nigh invaluable to Lord Morley and the permanent officials. He is an officer of the Indian army, with which he has served for nearly forty years.

Like many of our leading generals, Gen. Creagh is an Irishman and hails from Clare. His last appointment in India was as commandant of a first class district.

While serving in this capacity he had an amusing experience on one occasion. He had presented the prizes at the garrison sports, and was rather surprised when one of the prize winners—a private in an infantry days later and begged to know if he would be allowed to change his prize for something more useful.

"What was your prize?" asked the general. In reply the man produced a long case from under his arm and showed a handsome pair of meat carvers.

"Very nice, I am sure," said Gen. Creagh. "What do you want to change them for?"

"Well, you see, sir," replied the man, "I find them rather difficult to use at mealtime, and if it is all the same to the committee, sir, I would rather have a knife and fork of the size to eat meat with."

Gen. Creagh had to hastily turn his face away to avoid his mirth becoming visible to the man.—London Globe.

What Was in Her Hair

"Now Margaret, dear, I'm going to put some vasaline on your hair to take the dandruff out," said mamma to her small hopeful of five. "Then you may run out and play."

"What's in your hair, Margie," asked her playmate a little later. "It looks all shiny."

"Oh, my mamma put some gasoline in it to take the dandelions out," replied little Margaret wisely.—New York Times.

ECZEMA FROM HEAD TO FOOT

For Six Months his Suffering was Beyond Words—One Mass of Irritation and Itching was Dreadful—Slept Only from Sheer Exhaustion—Almost Out of His Mind—After 24 Hours' Use of Cuticura Slept Like an Infant and Then was CURED IN ONE MONTH BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"I am seventy-seven years old and one day, some years ago, I fell from a step-ladder, bruising my head. In a few days I could not walk. I called in a doctor and inside of a week erysipelas set in. The doctor had not cured me of that when I was taken with eczema from head to foot. I was sick for six months and what I suffered tongue could not tell. I could not sleep at night because of that dreadful itching, when I did sleep it was from sheer exhaustion. I was one mass of irritation; it was even in my scalp. The doctor's medicine seemed to make me worse and I was almost out of my mind. I read of Cuticura and sent my wife to the druggist, who was a member of my lodge of Odd Fellows, for a set of the Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent. I used them persistently for twenty-four hours. That night I slept like an infant, the first solid night's sleep I had had for six months. I was not afraid to use plenty of Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap with hot water and in a week's time I was able to put on my clothes again. In a month I was cured. From that day to this I cannot praise the Cuticura Remedies too highly. I may add that I have a very heavy head of hair which I owe to Cuticura. W. Harrison Smith, R. F. D. 2, Mt. Kisco, N. Y., Feb. 3, '08."

A single set of the Cuticura Remedies is often sufficient for the treatment of the most torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning and scaly humors, eczema, rashes and irritations, with loss of hair, from infancy to age, when all other remedies fail. Guaranteed absolutely pure and may be used from the hour of birth.

Good luck never hangs around a man long enough to become tiresome.

Wouldn't Wake Him

A high street small boy, about 5 years old, was taken to an entertainment by his mother the other evening. It was 10:30 o'clock when they reached home and the little fellow was very tired and sleepy. He undressed quickly and hopped into bed. "George," said his mother sternly, "I'm surprised at you."

"Why, mamma?" he asked.

"You didn't say your prayers. Get right out of that bed and say them."

"Aw mamma," came from the tired youngster, "what's the use of wakin' the Lord up at this time of night to hear me pray?"—Denver Post.

Progress

"Mister, you're wasting time sketching that old ruined bridge."

"Indeed?"

"Yes there's a fine new steel bridge just a mile further on."

DO A THRIVING BUSINESS

Despite Rainy Weather at Opening Success Has Attended the North Side Show

Tonight marks the close of one of the most successful carnivals which the North Side Amusement association has ever secured.

The weather during the first part of the week was rather unfavorable and the rain was incessant, but in spite of this the carnival did good business. The latter part of the week has been excellent for showing purposes and the crowds which have thronged the streets nightly have been enormous.

All the entertainments report that they have showed to good business while in the city. The animal show which was tied up here by the Milwaukee railway was put on for the first time last evening. The show consists of a large number of animals which have been well trained and are handled by capable men.

The little Russian prince seems to be the favorite with the feminine show-going public, probably because he so openly admits that he is looking for one the famous American beauties who want to annex a little in return for some cash. His matrimonial proclivities probably arouse the curiosity of the fair sex. The little Russian prince, is not very handsome but he says he has the title.

The carnival company will leave tomorrow for Aberdeen, South Dakota where they will show next. The many friends of the Kline company will have another opportunity of seeing the shows the last week in August when they will show in Winona.

WRECKER SENT TO HOLD UP BRIDGE

Incessant rains of the past week are causing trouble with the railroads in the southern part of the state. The little streams are rising rapidly and the necessary precautions are being taken by the railroad companies. Yesterday the wrecking outfit of the Burlington was sent to Prairie du Chien to raise one of the bridges in that vicinity which threatens to be washed out if the water in the stream continues to rise. At Lynxville the axle of one of the drivers snapped causing a small wreck to the outfit. Fortunately no one was hurt. The slight damage was repaired and the wrecker was able to proceed on its way to the scene of the work. The bridge will be elevated so that it will be out of reach of the rising waters. The danger of a wash-out at that place will thus be eliminated.

Pennsylvania Ear Masseur

The Great Cure for Deafness and Ear Diseases

Free Demonstrations in La Crosse

Mr. J. L. Nohner, representing the Pennsylvania Ear Masseur, a modern invention for the treatment of deafness and ear diseases. The only rational and reasonably reliable instrument ever devised for the cure of deafness. Its basic principle is scientific and its mode of operation is by air compression under vibration. The vibratory air is forced in direct contact with the drum membrane and the paralyzed muscles and nerves of the ear are forced into action by a process that would be utterly impossible by any other mechanical device, and the treatment is so effective and sure in action that the paralyzed and damaged organs are worked upon by a powerful force which is harmless, absolutely painless and of lasting effect. No matter how thick the drum membrane may be or how completely it has fallen or how securely the little bones of the ear have grown together, his treatment draws them loose, vibrates them to flexibility, restores the drum membrane to tenacity and renders it sensitive to sound. The treatment is scientific and it is positively effective in each and every case.

This Ear Masseur, while practically a new invention, has however been used by some of the leading Eastern specialists ever since it has been on the market, but not until recently has it been convenient to demonstrate it to the suffering individual patient direct. Some remarkable cures have been made and every well selected case can be cured by it. The arrangement is so complete that any one can use it and it will not require more than about five minutes each treatment, morning and evening, for a few weeks or a few months until the worst cases will be cured. The machine can be run by compressed air, by water, hand power or any other power and requires no assistance. No matter how long you have been deaf, who has doctored you nor what treatment you have had, this masseur will cure you positively, permanently, and cure you to stay cured. Thousands of people are being cured, and thousands will continue to be cured. A free demonstration by Mr. J. L. Nohner at the Stoddard on June 16 and 17, 1909, will be given to all interested and those who call on him any time on above date. You take no risk and if you are not sufficiently convinced there is no harm done and no enemies made. Mr. Nohner does not represent himself as a physician, nor does he come to sell these instruments direct. His desire is to demonstrate to you the great curative results of the Pennsylvania Ear Masseur, and if you are convinced after receiving the demonstration, then he will receive your order, charging you a small deposit down to assure good faith, and the instrument can be shipped to you, to be paid for when received. The charges are reasonable.

Remember the date and tell your friends or anyone you know who are suffering with any form of ear disease, ringing, roaring or noise in the ears, of this valuable demonstration. Special to The Tribune.

Mr. Nohner will visit Winona, Minn., and the following cities in this state. Those desiring to see this wonderful invention and receive a free demonstration are cordially invited to call upon him as detailed here below:

Winona, at Winona Hotel, June 14th and 15th; La Crosse, at the Stoddard, June 16th and 17th; Madison, at Park Hotel, June 18th and 19th; Milwaukee, at the Pfister, from June 21st to 26th; Racine, at Racine Hotel, June 28th and 29th; Sheboygan, at Grand Hotel, June 30th and July 1st; Green Bay, at Beaumont Hotel, July 2 and 3rd; Oshkosh, at The Tremont, July 6th and 7th; Fond du Lac, at New Evening, July 8th and 9th.

CLEAN KLINE SHOW. FINE AND DANDY

Local Business Men Visit
Carnival and Enjoy Delightful Evening Amid
Rose St. Wonders

BEST IN THE BUSINESS

Knowledge and Fun in Store for Thousands Who Are Visiting Swell Attractions

Kline? Fine!

In fact, there isn't anything on the road and bearing the name quite like the Kline Carnival company. Last night the Rose street show was literally swamped with people, and every night has found a greater audience than the previous night, as praise of the shows reached new ears. People are so pleased that going once isn't enough, and one sees the same smiling faces in the crowd night after night. Not only the young folk, but business men and their wives and children, for there is nothing cleaner than the clean Kline shows.

The Kline company is a wonderful composite of fun and facts, amusement and education. From the thrilling realism of frontier scenes and incidents found in Dickey's Wild West and Indian Congress to the ridiculous and tantalizing roulette wheel, is a long step, but the sublime and the ridiculous in the various performances are both capable of being appreciated.

Members of the Tribune staff accompanied a large party of businessmen to the carnival last evening. They stayed "to the finish" and every moment of the two hours of sight seeing was thoroughly enjoyed.

The Real War Whoop

The Dickey Wild West and Indian congress gives an excellent demonstration of the life of the cowboys, the roping of horses and cattle, breaking of wild horses, shooting on the wing and an Indian burial procession by the Sioux Indians. The reproduction by the cowboys of Remington's picture, "The Fight for the Water Hole," is excellent. The show carries sixty people, twenty genuine Indians, squaws and papooses, 35 horses and a herd of ranch cattle. It is the most true to the frontier life of any that has been seen here.

Some Fancy Dancing

The Oriental theater gives a reproduction of the life and customs and dances of the Oriental people. It is clean muscle dancing, such as was seen on the Midway Plaisance in the Chicago exposition, before civilization had corrupted the act.

The serpentine show is a dancing attraction of merit which the party enjoyed hugely. Agility and artistic posing characterize this graceful performance, giving a pleasantly restful effect after the strenuousity of the wild west.

Elma is without a doubt the fattest girl in the world. In order to rest her immense proportions it is necessary for her to occupy a divan. She is 19 years old and weighs 731 pounds. She was born near here, somewhere about Kilbourn City. We found her bright and chatty.

Schiltzie, the wild Aztec girl is indeed a wonder, being small in size and the only survivor of that once predominating race of intelligent Mexican Indians. A half ounce of brain is all her peaked head accommodates.

The Russian Midget

The Russian Midget is the smallest man on earth, being 27 inches tall and weighing 16 pounds. He is 32 years of age and speaks three languages fluently. He is a big attraction, perhaps the greatest hit in the business. This wonderful fragile little man is perfect in proportion, bright and mature mentally, and as much of a wit as of a financier, which is a whole lot.

Miss Ella K. Ewing, the giantess from Missouri is 8 feet and 4 inches tall one of the largest of the human race that has ever been exhibited to the public. It is a pleasure to visit with her. She has a pleasant personality and entertains the audience well.

Bachman's glass blowers furnish an exhibition of the different ways of producing wonderful glass objects which are given to the people free of charge. The articles are blown by experienced glass blowers who have been secured for the attraction. This is the most valuable of the educational features of the carnival, the culmination of the industrial demonstration being a steam engine made entirely of glass.

The animal show is one of the best ever seen here. The show has the only tiger in the business which rides on the back of a horse. The party voted it the best trained animal show they had seen.

Fun for the Youngsters

The "Circling Wave," a great spiral that revolves with its foamy crest of babes and boys and girls like a mighty ocean wave whitecapped with froth, brings delight to the young folk, and is seldom idle, but there was a great "grown-ups" which made a fun hit with our party.

It Jumbles Your Giblets

Hist! It's the "Roulette Wheel?"

Been against it?

No, they're not running down town. The chief of police says so, and he knows. But this is different. It is a sort of hesitating vibrating, no way, part another, and all of it has a tendency to dump you about its hub. The "gents" got on. One foot went one way, another another way. The

TEAM PLAYS EAU CLAIRE TOMORROW

The La Crosse team returns home tomorrow to meet Eau Claire for the first time. Rommy Romaine arrived ahead of the team and will probably be in the box for the locals. The team has fared well while on the road, and if they win today will make an even split of the games played away from home.

A big excursion on the Green Bay will bring in a crowd from Blair and other cities along the line for the contest tomorrow. A number of the Winona fans that were here on Memorial day and received rain checks will probably be on hand tomorrow, as Winona plays away from home.

President Rooney announces that the rain checks for reserved seats will be good, but that the holders of the checks must reserve the seats at Forschler's or Fay Lewis. The other rain checks will be honored just the same as tickets.

CIVIL SERVICE LAW REMAINS UNCHANGED

MADISON, Wis., June 12.—The state civil service law remains unchanged as regards an increase in the powers of the commission. The fighting and bickering over the question of review of cases of discharged employees by the commission resulted in no action by the legislature.

This legislature did not display any desire to reimburse state officials who have suffered loss because of suits. It turned down a bill designed to reimburse State Treasurer Dahl for his expense of $431, in an action brought by I. P. Leigh, a discharged employee, who was reinstated by the court.

It was discovered Thursday night, however, that in killing the bill, the assembly had slaughtered the appropriation that would carry the commission for the next two years. This portion of the bill was revised and finally passed, appropriating to the commission $15,000 annually, which was an increase of $3,000 over what was provided previously.

After the game between the Fat and Lean Traveling Men at League baseball park this afternoon, the La Crosse high school team will play with the Winona aggregation. This is the second time the local boys have met Winona this season, the former game resulting in victory for the locals by a narrow margin. Since Winona's defeat, however, that team has won every game, and word comes that the Minnesotans intend to take the scalp of the home team back with them. Olson and Novak will constitute the battery for La Crosse.

GET NEW ULM ROBBER
NEW ULM, Minn., June 12.—A posse consisting of twenty-five men in six automobiles last night cornered one of the three robbers who held up Night Operator W. H. Wilder and Conductor E. A. Hutchinson Thursday night at the Northwestern passenger depot, knocked them senseless and robbed the safe of $236.73.

One of the robbers lay down at a strawstack for a nap and was overtaken by Henry Hein, who compelled him to surrender. He had $121.91 on his person. He confessed.

The city clerk reported a number of applications for licenses to sell gun powder, run hotels, etc., which were granted.

A communication from the city engineer recommending a skimming basin for purifying the water in the city service was referred to the proper committees.

Owing to the necessity for holding a special meeting for the granting of licenses, the council adjourned subject to the call of the mayor.

The matter of a proposed municipal lighting plant for the city of La Crosse came up in the form of a supplementary report from Jacob A. Cloos, consulting engineer and the matter was referred to the proper committees.

NEW-MADE HUSBAND HELD FOR RANSOM

NAPLES, June 12.—The police of Naples are today satisfied that Holland Bennett, the young Boston lawyer who mysteriously disappeared from the steamship Bersin some where between Genoa and this city, is the victim of the Camorro that infests Naples. They do not believe he has been killed, as no motive for his death is apparent, but think that he is being held for ransom.

The only known facts of importance in the mystery are that Bennett and his young wife whom he married but a month ago, boarded the Bersin at Genoa Thursday evening shortly before sailing for Naples; that Mrs. Bennett went to the reading room and her husband to the smoking room; that within a half hour from the Bersin's sailing she went in search of her husband to go to dinner with him and found him missing.

BODY OF DROWNED NEGRO IS FOUND

The body of the negro who was drowned from the packet St. Paul, of the Diamond Jo line here last Sunday, when the swinging stage fell and struck him senseless into the Mississippi, was found today afloat near the foot of Cass street. Employees at the Can company saw the body floating and called the police.

The body is now in Miller Bros.' morgue, where it will await disposition to be made of it. It is not known as yet whether the county will be required to defray the cost of the burial or whether the expense will be borne by the packet company.

The other negro who was injured is still confined at the La Crosse hospital where he is rapidly recovering from his hurts and will within a week be in a condition to be discharged.

LEADING WHITEHALL BANKER DIES TODAY

John O. Melby Expires of Cancer of the Stomach After a Brief Illness

OPERATION GAVE RELIEF

Mayo Brothers Operated Four Years Ago, but Old Trouble Returns and Is Fatal

WHITEHALL, Wis., June 12.—(Special.)—John O. Melby, leading banker of this city, died at 10 o'clock this morning of cancer of the stomach after only a brief illness with the disease, aged 64 years.

Four years ago Mr. Melby was operated on by Drs. Mayo at Rochester and the cancer removed. He had enjoyed good health since then until a few months ago, when he was again troubled. The funeral arrangements are being made today. It is probable the services will be held on Tuesday.

Mr. Melby was born in Askin, Norway, Oct. 15, 1845, and was educated in the old country. He came to the United States in 1869 and located in Omaha. After a few months he came to La Crosse and in the spring of 1870 located at Ettrick, Trempealeau county, where he worked for Alver Peterson for five years.

Men past middle life have found comfort and relief in Foley's Kidney Remedy, especially for enlarged, prostrate gland, which is very common among elderly men. L. E. ## SUPPRESS RUZ STORY

LONDON, June 12.—The authorities today formally refused to reveal the contents of the depositions taken in connection with the suicide of Mrs. Marie Ruiz, friend of Mr. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, around whose death an effort was made to throw a veil of secrecy.

One of the two reporters who obtained the "facts of the case" admits that he was paid a large sum for suppressing the story. It is estimated that the "mysterious American" who attended to the work of sealing up the affair, spent $25,000 in his task.

to make arrangements with the Hortense Nielsen company to play a special return engagement at the La Crosse theatre on Saturday and Sunday, June 12 and 13th. Tonight Miss Nielsen will repeat Ibsen's "A Doll's House," in order that those who were unable to see this great play last Sunday will have another opportunity; and no doubt many of the appreciative audience of last Sunday will be glad to avail themselves of the opportunity of seeing it again, as Miss Nielsen's company is one of the best that has played at La Crosse this season.

On Sunday, June 13th, matinee, Miss Nielsen will appear in Herman Sudermann's masterpiece, "Magda," which, although well known to theatergoers, has not been seen in La Crosse for several seasons. This is the play which made Miss Nielsen famous in one night at San Francisco; and which played to standing room at the Grand Opera house for the remainder of the four weeks' run.

This should indeed prove a treat to those of the La Crosse theatergoers who appreciate a strong dramatic entertainment played by an all-star company.

SPOTLIGHTS*"A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM"

Performances of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" are no everyday occurrences, and presentations of Shakespeare's immortal fantasy with all the music which Mendelssohn was impressed by it to compose are rare. Because of that fact, the co-operation of the Ben Greet players and the Russian Symphony orchestra of New York in productions of this play at La Crosse theater Monday evening, June 14th, should have extraordinary interest for all lovers of Shakespearean drama. The orchestra will comprise fifty musicians, under the direction of Modest Altschuler, who organized the Russian Symphony band six years ago, and has won a prominent place in the artistic life of this country by his enterprise and ability in bringing to the attention of American audiences many works by talented Russian composers previously known by name only to our music lovers.

Mr. Altschuler was born in Mohileff on the Dnieper, in Russia, where his father, the leader of a small orchestra, introduced the first local theater. At an early age he began to study the cello, and when he was eleven years old he became a pupil of Gobelt, in the Conservatory of Music, in Warsaw. At the age of 13 he made his first appearance as a soloist with the orchestra. Going later to Moscow, he won a scholarship at the Imperial Conservatory, then under the direction of Wassily-Safonoff, now the conductor of the New York Philharmonic orchestra. Taneyeff was his instructor there in theory and composition, Arenski in harmony and Kashin in the history of music. His first opportunity to wield a baton occurred eight years ago, when with the assistance of a local orchestra, he gave the first symphony concert in his native town.

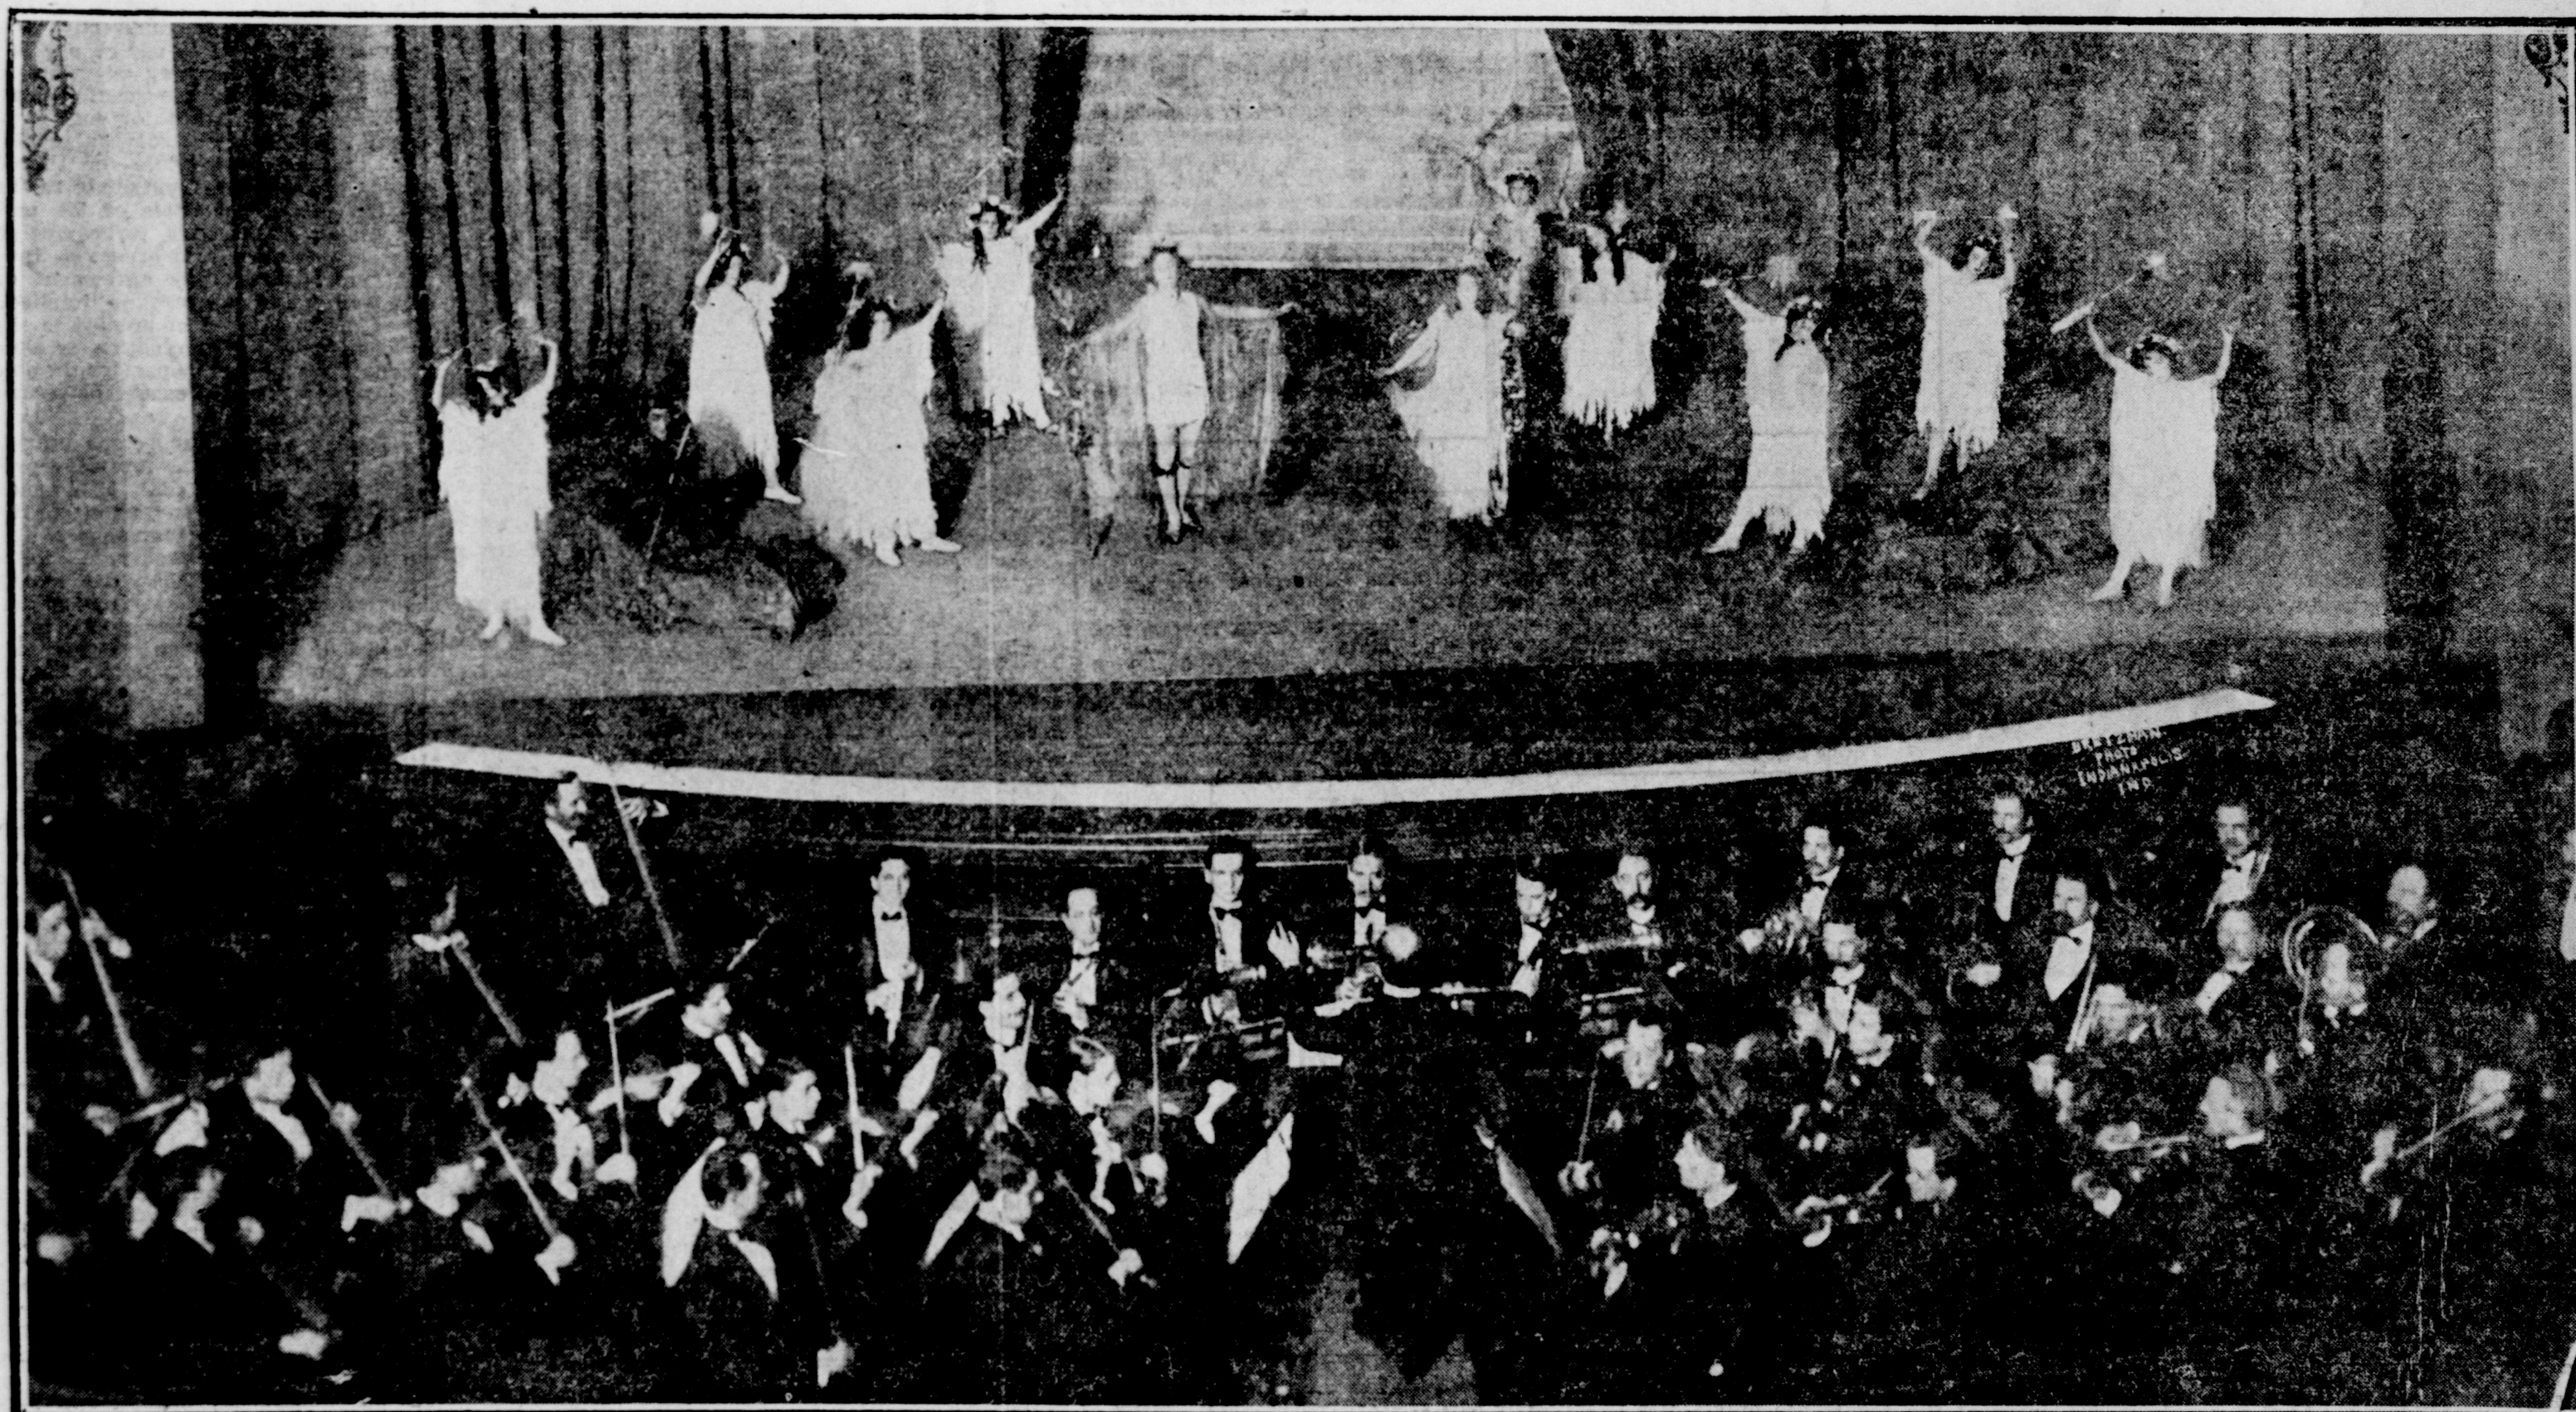

The unusual charm of such a performance as will be given by the Russian Symphony and the Greet players, each of which is famous for its individual work, may be easily imagined. Wherever the combination formed to pay tribute to the memory of Mendelssohn, the centenary of whose birth was observed on Feb. 2, has appeared, it has attracted large audiences. In addition to the players and the musicians, a group of children for the fairy dances, Miss Ruth Vivian, whose solo dancing will be to the accompaniment of the Spring Song and the Nocturne, and Miss Grave Kahler, soprano, will assist in the performances. A special stage setting, designed by Troy and Margaret Kinney, whose mural paintings, especially those in the Grand Opera house, Chicago are well known will be used.

THE MORRIS BILL FOR PURE ELECTION

Text a Measure Drawn by Senator Morris and Referred to the Coming Special Session

The Morris bill, drafted as a result of the senate investigation of the campaign of Isaac Stephenson and aimed to prevent the recurrence of such scandals as that which has shaken the state ever since the last election, has been referred to the special session of the legislature. It is of wide interest and in order that readers of The Tribune may know its terms, it is hereafter published in full:

A Bill to create sections 94-1 to 94-24 inclusive, of the statutes, relating to corrupt practices at primaries and general and special elections, and providing penalties therefor. The people of the state of Wisconsin, represented in senate and assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. There are added to the statutes twenty-four new sections, to read:

Section 94-1. No candidate for nomination to any public office shall give, provide, expend or contribute any money for campaign purposes except in person or through his duly authorized campaign manager. Money may be expended by or in behalf of a candidate for public office, or of a political party, for the following designated purposes only:

1. Hall rentals incident to the holding of public meetings.
2. Necessary clerical assistance to be employed by the candidate at his home headquarters or at the headquarters of his said campaign manager, incident to the writing, addressing and mailing of letters and campaign literature.

3. Necessary expenses incident to the printing and distribution of hand bills, posters, lithographs and other campaign literature, through the mails or by freight or express.

4. Campaign advertising in newspapers, periodicals or magazines, provided, however, that every such advertisement shall be designated as "Paid Advertisement" at the head of the advertisement, in plain capital letters, and shall state the amount paid or to be paid therefor and the name of the payor and of the author thereof.

5. The actual necessary personal expenses of the candidate incident to travel, board and lodging.

Section 94-2. No candidate for nomination to any public office at any primary shall give, provide, expend or contribute money for campaign purposes save for the specific purposes mentioned in section 94-1 of the statutes, as created by this act.

Section 94-3. No candidate for election to any public office at any general or special election shall give, provide, expend or contribute money for political purposes save for the specific purposes mentioned in section 94-1 of the statutes, as created by this act; provided, however, that any candidate for election to any public office may make contributions to any political committee of his party in the district in which he resides; but no candidate for election to the legislature shall contribute any money to any state central committee or receive any money from any such committee.

Section 94-4.—Every candidate for public office at any primary shall, once a week, file a statement with the secretary of state, if a candidate for a congressional or state office, and with the county clerk of the county in which he resides, in all other cases, which statement shall be under oath and shall state in detail all sums of money received by him and disbursed by him for campaign purposes during the preceding week, together with the names and addresses of the persons from whom received and to whom paid and the specific purposes for which paid; the first statement to be filed within one week after he has incurred the first expenditure of money for campaign purposes, and weekly thereafter until the close of the primary campaign and until all moneys disbursed in his primary campaign have been accounted for.

Section 94-5. Every candidate for public office at any general or special election shall, once a week, file a statement with the secretary of state, if a candidate for a congressional or state office, and with the county clerk of the county in which he resides, in all other cases, which statement shall be under oath and shall state in detail all sums of money received by him and disbursed by him for campaign purposes during the preceding week, together with the names and addresses of the persons from whom received and to whom paid and the specific purposes for which paid; the first statement to be filed within one week after he has incurred the first expenditure of money for campaign purposes in the election, and weekly thereafter until the close of the campaign and until all money expended in his campaign has been accounted for.

Section 94-6. Before any campaign manager shall disburse any money in behalf of his candidate he shall file with the officer with whom such candidate is required to file his nomination papers a written statement signed by such candidate, setting forth that such manager has been appointed and giving the name and address of such manager.

Section 94-7. Every campaign manager shall weekly, from and after the time of his appointment as such campaign manager, until the termination of his duties as such manager, file with the officer with whom the candidate he represents is required to file his nomination papers a statement of all sums of money received by him and expended by him for campaign purposes in behalf of such candidate, which statement shall be under oath and shall state in detail all sums of money received by him and disbursed by him in behalf of such candidate during the preceding week, together with the names and addresses of the persons from whom received and to whom paid and the specific purposes for which paid.

Section 94-8. No candidate for public office, nor any campaign manager representing any such candidate, nor any political committee representing any political party, shall accept from any person any contribution to be used for campaign purposes in excess of the sum of five hundred dollars in the aggregate.

Section 94-9. No candidate for office at the primary election, and no other person, campaign manager or political committee shall accept from any person not a resident of this state, directly or indirectly, any money to be used for campaign purposes in this state.

Section 94-10. No person or political committee shall expend money in behalf of any candidate for public office or in behalf of any political party, except for the purposes hereinbefore specified; provided, however, that any lawfully constituted political party committee may pay the actual and necessary traveling expenses of public speakers participating in campaigns other than the primary.

Section 94-11. Every person who shall expend in the aggregate a sum of money exceeding fifty dollars for campaign purposes in behalf of any candidate for public office or in behalf of any political party shall forthwith file a statement with the clerk of the county wherein he resides, which said statement shall be under oath and shall state in detail all sums of money so disbursed by him, together with the names and addresses of the persons to whom paid and the specific purposes for which paid.

Section 94-12. After the primary no candidate for election to the United States senate shall expend any money whatsoever in behalf of his candidacy, except for his own actual necessary personal traveling expenses and for postage, telephone and telegraph expenses necessarily incident to such candidacy.

Section 94-13. No candidate for the office of United States senator shall, directly or indirectly, give, subscribe, promise to pay or pay any sum of money or thing of value to procure, or aid in procuring, the nomination or election of any person to the senate or assembly of this state, or directly or indirectly give, subscribe, promise to pay or pay any sum of money or thing of value, to any candidate for the senate or assembly of this state for any campaign purposes whatsoever; provided, that such candidate for United States senator may contribute to the state central committee of his party money to be used for campaign purposes generally, if otherwise lawful and without any agreement or understanding express or implied, that it is to be used or applied to the procuring of the nomination or election of any person or persons, in particular, to the said senate or assembly.

Section 94-14. Any person offending against any of the foregoing provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail for a period of not less than one month nor more than one year, or by imprisonment in the state prison for a period of not less than one year nor more than five years, in the discretion of the court or judge before whom such conviction is had; and no person so convicted shall be permitted to take or hold the office to which he is elected, if any, or receive the emoluments thereof.

Section 94-15. No person shall demand, solicit, take, invite or receive any payment or contribution of money or thing of value for any religious, charitable, fraternal or other cause or organization, except political causes and organizations, from a person who is seeking the nomination or election to any office; and no person while seeking a nomination or election shall make or promise or intimate that he will or may make such payment or contribution in the future; but nothing herein shall prohibit the payment of any regular subscription or contribution to an organization, by a candidate, of which he is a member or to which he may have been a regular contributor prior to his candidacy, nor the ordinary contributions at regular church services.

Section 94-16. No person shall at any time or place, on the day of any primary or election, ask, solicit, or in any manner try to induce or persuade any voter at such primary or election to vote for or refrain from voting for any candidate or ticket of any political party or organization, or any measure submitted to the people, or do any manner of political service for any candidate, political party or political organization.

Section 94-17. No person shall pay any sum of money or thing of value whatever for services to be performed on the day of any primary or election in behalf of any candidate, party or measure, to be voted upon at said primary or election, or for any political service or for any loss of time or damage suffered by attendance at the polls at the primary or election, or in registering, or for the expense of transportation

Section 94-18. No publisher of a newspaper or other periodical shall insert either in the advertising or reading columns of such newspaper or periodical any matter paid for or to be paid for which is intended or tends to aid, injure or defeat any candidate, political party or organization or measure upon which the electors of the state or any part thereof are to vote, unless at the head of said matter is printed in plain capital letters the words "Paid Advertisement," and unless there is also a statement at the head of said matter of the amount paid or to be paid therefor, the name and address of the person authorizing the publication, and the name of the author thereof. # ARRANGING THE JUNE BRIDE'S VEIL

The SEASON'S FAVORITE STYLES and MATERIALS

HINTS ON THE TROUSSEAU

Gathered in New York Shops

By HELEN D. PURDY

THOUGH there are brides all the year round, it seems to be the universal idea that only the girl who enters that felicitous state in the month of June needs to be especially advised about her trousseau. As there are any number of charming young women who manage the matter very cleverly during the remaining eleven months, one cannot help a lurking suspicion that a very great deal of the advice so bounteously bestowed is more or less unnecessary.

Wardrobe Required

The sensible girl of to-day has a quite comprehensive understanding of what wardrobe is required, so little advice is needed, except about the wedding gown and its accessories. There is one suggestion that will probably be superfluous to the girl of sentiment, and that is to have as much of her trousseau as possible home-made—self-made in many instances.

We are living in such a mechanical age—even the Wedding March issues from the horn of the phonograph—that the ready-made appeals on every hand as economy of time and labor. There should be some sentiment stitched into the outfit for the new estate, if it be only that it may serve as a certificate of skill in at least one of the household arts.

Lifetime Outfit Unnecessary

There is no reason for supposing that the bride-elect begins her planning from an empty wardrobe, nor is there the necessity for preparing an outfit for a lifetime; dozens of everything are only for the prodigal. A girl who is employed at business has little time to do her own sewing, but she can and will do some in preparation for her wedding. Both she and the girl who has lived at home with parents and brothers and sisters will find, when she is alone in her own home, that there are many stray moments that may be profitably and happily devoted to "plain sewing."

Four sets of underwear will provide a comfortable outfit, and, if necessary, one can manage satisfactorily with three. This will include nightdress, drawers, corset-cover, chemise, short under-petticoat and long outer-petticoat. The list may be varied, omitting, for instance, the chemise if the corset-cover and short under-petticoat are provided, or uniting the corset-cover with either the under-petticoat or the drawers in one of the princess models for these combination garments.

In the larger cities there are annual sales when underwear may be bought at what seem remarkably reasonable prices for garments that are ready to wear, but opportunities of this sort are rarely open to girls in the smaller cities, and a newswoman with a knowledge of materials will not be satisfied with many of these bargains.

Material Preferable

Soft-finish nainsook is nicest for underwear, except for long white petticoats, and for these cambric is used. It is most satisfactory to buy the material by the piece. Nainsook comes in twelve-yard lengths, and a good quality, thirty-six inches wide, may be bought for one dollar and a half per piece.

AN ENVELOPING VEIL OF FINE NET.

Valenciennes lace at about the same price per piece of one dozen yards is quite the prettiest trimming one may have. The edging alone may be used, or a matching insertion at the same price may be added.

An extremely pretty idea is to make the ruffles on drawers, chemise and petticoat of sheer Persian or French lawn. This may be edged with narrow lace, or the lace may be omitted and a hem an inch wide, with one or more clusters of tiny tucks, well spaced, will afford a novel and most attractive trimming. Dotted Swiss may trim another set, and fine cross-barred dimity is also good for the purpose. There will be character and daintiness about such garments that cannot be equalled by the ready-made except at the highest prices.

If the long, white petticoats are made by a pattern that provides for a detachable flounce, a seemingly greater variety of skirts may be included and the flounces may vary in elaborateness of trimming. Here, too, the narrow ruffles of lawn or Swiss, applied to the deeper flounce, will be found fluffy and pretty—just the thing to wear under light summer frocks.

Value of Lawns

About these same frocks, don't forget the attractiveness of low-priced lawns and dimities. Simply and tastefully made, they are quite smart enough for any afternoon or informal evening occasion. A good model for the skirts of these dresses is an upper portion, slightly gored, with a deep flounce applied with a heading—what used to be called a Spanish flounce—a few years ago. A surprise model is good for the waist or a simple full shirt-waist, either tucked or gathered at the shoulders, and drawn snugly at the belt. If you get a lawn, say twelve and one-half cents per yard, that has tiny pink rosebuds or pale blue blossoms sprinkled over the white ground, try making a frill, three-quarters of an inch wide, of pale-blue or pink lawn to take the place of lace to edge the fronts of the waist or little strap collar.

Lawn dresses of this kind are not the laundry bugbears that we are sometimes told. Frequent pressing will keep them looking fresh for a long time before there is any necessity for them to be actually laundered. If dampness has made them particularly "slimpy," rub over each breadth lightly, before pressing, with a sponge dampened with gum water.

Avoid the Morning Wrapper

Infinitely to be preferred to a morning wrapper is the skirt-and-waist costume, both plainly made and, if it seems desirable to carry out the one-piece idea, both joined to a band. Gingham, either checked or striped, is most suitable for these dresses, and a three-piece skirt—a front gore and two wide gores forming sides and back—is the best and most easily made model.

The Wedding Gown

In the selection of the wedding gown

many things are to be taken into consideration, one's circumstances first of all. If the question of expense must be considered, it is much better to retrench on the wedding gown than on any other part of the trousseau.

White crepe de chine, chiffon, organ-dy, dotted Swiss, point d'esprit, even Persian lawn or one of the inexpensive silk muslins, may be made to do duty later as a formal evening gown. Everyone knows, I fancy, that as a wedding gown it must have high neck and at least elbow sleeves, to be met by long gloves. The neck may be trimmed out in deeper outline later, or a detachable yoke guimpe will make practically two waists.

The Veil

The white gown calls for the veil to accompany it. Here, too, is latitude, from a handsome lace pattern-veil to Brussels net, bought by the yard. Except when the lace veil is an heirloom, the net is, rather preferred, even when one is so fortunate as to be able to afford to have the veil arranged by a high-priced milliner.

Frequently the lace-edged veil is a large square. To arrange it, find the center of one of its sides and lay several plaits at each side of this center. Tack them to a small ribbon-covered band, that may be pinned to the hair.

Plait again, about six inches back of the first row of plaits, and bring this second row forward and tack to the band; the net between the two rows of plaits will stand up like a double frill; arrange the orange blossoms to come partly under this frill. The remainder of that side of the veil will fall in a straight line at each side of the face, gradually lengthening toward the back.

Another kind of veil is of net, and completely envelopes the figure, falling over the face as well as the back. Two widths of the wide net will be necessary. A wide bow of the net forms the head arrangement; it is placed well forward on the head, and the orange blossoms are posed toward the back. After the ceremony the front portion of the veil is thrown back, over the head.

Modifying the Wedding Gown

A useful little garment that will help to modify the wedding gown later on into an ordinary frock, is one of the little coats with mandarin sleeves, that the high-class gownmakers are turning out in both fine and heavy linen. It might in this case be made of the same material as the gown or of handkerchief linen or batiste. It is made with the sleeves omitted, and the wide, mandarin bands, that concealed the joining of the sleeves to the jacket, are cut from heavy all-over lace and edged with a little frill of the batiste, of which the jacket is made. The fronts are embroidered, though lace might be inset instead.

A few words here on some of the problems after marriage may not be amiss.

The Family Pocket-Book

This is a "family problem" that is one of the most fruitful sources of discord in the home, a problem that young girls who are thinking of entering the matrimonial state would do well to stop and consider.

They should discuss the future with the man whom they expect to marry, should talk over the many practical questions that are sure to confront them after the honeymoon. If a man has a stipulated salary upon which to depend, or an income from any source, he should give his wife a certain amount each week or month as they shall both agree, for her to use in running the household, buying groceries, clothing for herself, etc. She would soon learn to make the expenses come within her allowance.

THE WEDDING

Proper Way to Handle All Details of This Event

HER wedding is naturally an important event in a girl's life. She wishes the occasion to be as beautiful as possible, but she forgets sometimes that there is beauty in simplicity, beauty in the fair proportion of spending according to one's means. She does not realize that what may appear to be beautiful outwardly does not really possess beauty if there is underneath it all a current of anxiety to other people, expense, or strain in one way or another.

It is inconsiderate of a girl to overtax her parents with expense in her wedding arrangements. They would, no doubt, make sacrifices for her sake, but a thoughtful, sensible girl will not wish to make her wedding a strain on her parents' purse.

Wedding Expenses

The expenses for trousseau and wedding, the invitations, floral decorations, reception and collation, are always assumed by the bride's family, and any departure from this absolute rule is a breach of etiquette. Then, too, if there are bridesmaids, it is for the bride to give a present to each, and this means another expense for her parents.

Few girls take into consideration the expenditure in gifts which must be assumed by the bridegroom if an elaborate wedding is planned, with numerous attendants; for the bridegroom is expected to send a bouquet to each bridesmaid, a gift to each usher and to the best man, besides providing the bride's bouquet, and of course the wedding ring, and paying the fee to the clergyman.

Although these are the only expenses he is permitted to assume, they are not trifling; indeed, they may amount to a goodly sum, and although a man wishes to be liberal on this occasion, he may be obliged to be prudent.

The Bride Should Be Considerate

A girl often takes for granted that her best-beloved will agree without a murmur to any of her wishes, and he does usually—that is, his murmurs are not so audible until after the wedding. He is supposed to be so glad to be the proud husband of the one he loves that he will sacrifice every personal wish or convenience for her sake. This may be right, if within reasonable bounds, but a girl who is considerate will be truly reasonable in making her wedding preparations. Choose simplicity rather than display, and be considerate of others.

A very simple home wedding may be very beautiful, and it is eminently practicable, where expense must be considered. It obviates the necessity of large expenditure and cuts off the cost for floral decorations at a church, carriages to and from the church, fee to organist and fee for opening the church—all of these expenses being for the bride's parents.

Then, too, the invitations to a small home wedding need not be engraved forms, but may be informal notes written by the bride's mother. If the house is large enough, all one's friends may be invited; if it is small, it is correct to invite only relatives and a limited number of friends, and to send, after the marriage, the announcements to those who were not invited to the wedding. These are issued in the name of the bride's parents, and paid for by them and are sent to the general acquaintances of the families of bride and bridegroom.

The Wedding Hour

The hour popularly chosen for a wedding is mid-day or afternoon. Evening weddings are now out of fashion. A bride-elect has the privilege of choosing the day, the clergyman and the bridesmaids. The ushers are selected from among her friends and those of the bridegroom. One bridesmaid, or maid-of-honor, would be sufficient at a small wedding, but it is not necessary to have any attendants.

At a country wedding, when guests are expected to arrive by train, carriages are provided, at the expense of the bride's parents, to convey guests from the station to the house, and thence to the train afterwards.

Decorating the House

The house may be decorated with a few palms and growing plants as a background near the place where the ceremony will take place. Cut flowers, roses, carnations, white lilies and lilies are seasonable in June. The blossoms of the syringa, or mock-orange, make charming effects and are inexpensive. Natural effects are produced by having the flowers in vases or bowls on mantels and tables banked with wild fern. The bride's mother receives the guests in the room where the ceremony is to take place.

The Wedding Procession

An aisle formed of white ribbons may be made by four or six young girls stretching the strands from given points. Between these ribbons the bridal party walks. The clergyman enters first, followed by the bridegroom and best man. They may either walk up the aisle described or enter by a side door, near the place for the ceremony, and take their positions where the ceremony will be, facing the guests, the bridegroom at the left of clergyman, and the best man at the left of bridegroom.

If there are ushers, they enter two and two. Then comes the maid-of-honor, preceding the bride, who comes last, leaning on the right arm of her father. When approaching the place where the ceremony will be the ushers go to each side, allowing the maid-of-honor to pass up to the left; the bridegroom advances to meet the bride, who removes her hand from her father's arm and places it in the hand of the bridegroom, who leads her forward, and they stand facing the clergyman, but not hand in hand.

The maid-of-honor is at the left of the bride, in readiness to offer any little attention, such as holding her bouquet or glove. The best man is at the right of bridegroom, standing back, and in readiness to produce the ring at the proper place in the ceremony. The bride's father stands behind the bride, in readiness to give her away in the ceremony, when having performed that duty, he may withdraw.

After the Ceremony

After the ceremony the clergyman congratulates the newly-wedded pair and then withdraws, and they turn and stand in his place, the maid-of-honor at the right of bride, the best man moves away and makes himself generally useful as an usher.

The white ribbons which formed an aisle are carried away, and the family and friends hasten to offer greetings to the bride and her husband.

A simple feast may be set forth on a table in the dining-room and may consist of bouillon served in cups, hot croquettes of chicken, salad, dainty sandwiches, ices and cakes. Plenty of plates, forks, spoons and napkins are on the table, and the guests help themselves and each other, and are not seated at tables, but stand up or may sit informally about the rooms.

CONCERNING HEALTH

Vitality and Freedom from Disease Attained by Care

WHEN one has purchased a machine of any kind, the owner takes the greatest pains to understand its workings and its requirements in order that he may get from it what he desires and keep it from wearing out. How little thought is bestowed on the human machine to preserve to it the essentials of its well-being!

The physician is not regarded as an instructor and guide in the preservation of health, but only as a healer of disease; yet every physician knows that the amount of preventable sickness far outweighs that which is not. If an individual would give attention to the fundamental requirements of his body, he would not only live in a better condition and avoid illness, but he would add years of usefulness to his life.

Know Thyself

Each individual has peculiarities of constitution which cause him to differ in his needs from everyone else. He should learn to know what these are and to obtain them. It is in this manner he can increase the sum total of his vitality. Vitality is the word which is used to express the strength and durability of the human machine. The greater a person's vitality, the greater his power to resist disease and the longer his life.

One is born with a certain amount of inherent vitality. If this sinks below the required amount the infant cannot withstand the exactions of existence, and perishes. If there is not enough reserve vitality the child will not live to attain adult life. People are accustomed to regard this inherent vitality as a matter of birth, heredity, a matter which is beyond control; but this is not so.

Often the weakest infant becomes the strongest of a brood of children, for the very reason that the parents study to do everything possible to make the child stronger, while giving less attention to the others. Children are like plants; they thrive under certain conditions and pine and perish when these are lacking.

How to Increase Vitality

Generally one can work out the problem of increasing his vitality himself, but if he does not succeed it would be greatly to his profit to consult a physician and get direction, rather than wait until he is actually ill before doing so. Many make a practice of going regularly to the dentist to have the teeth examined, in order to keep them in a proper condition. How much sickness might be saved if one, feeling that his health was not what it should be, should in the same manner consult his physician to obtain help in right ways of living, that his body might be in the most perfect condition possible. If this practice obtained there would be fewer sudden deaths from heart disease and other obscure conditions of the internal organs.

The essential of life in every human being is perfect nutrition. By which is meant that he should have the right kind of food, the proper amount to sustain the functioning of the organs of the body and the outlay which is used in the daily employments of the individual. A great deal has been written and preached on this subject recently, but it will have little effect if the individual does not find out what these sayings have for him.

The Right Food

As necessary for the human machine is the right kind of food as is fuel for the furnace which heats the steam by which the engine is run. Coal to heat the boiler containing the steam is necessary for the steam engine, but a steam engine cannot be run by electricity any more than the electric motor can be run by steam.

It is the opinion of many that most people are ruining their systems not only by not eating the right kind of food, but by eating far too much. I think that our present bills of fare are much too elaborate.

Simplicity in Food Essential

Simple, nourishing food, in the amount necessary to repair the waste that has been taken place, and to provide the strength, is what one should take. Anything more clogs the system, impairs the power. The surplus of food is deposited in fat beneath the skin and around the vital organs, especially the heart, and serious damage is done.

It is by individual experimentation that the problem is solved. Those who live to eat only will not live very long. The temptation to enjoy the pleasures of the palate in eating and drinking are among the ones most frequently yielded to. Our customs of friendship and hospitality and our desire for display combine to dig the pitfalls of a lowered vitality, a weakened system and a premature grave.

Concerning Waste Products

The waste products of the human machine are even more potent factors than food in lowering the vitality; often they do this to such an extent that death is the result. The skin becomes muddy and blotched; the heart acts irregularly; the liver, which is the most complicated organ in the body, performs its many duties imperfectly.

The skin assists in disposing of the waste of the system, and in order to do it well it is necessary that it should be kept in good condition by baths and exercises, otherwise it throws too much work on the kidneys, which are most susceptible to insidious disease that undermines the constitution and saps it of its vitality. Examinations should be made from time to time to see that these organs are acting rightly, especially when one loses strength and feels that the vitality is lowered.

Heart and Lungs

The heart is a very much over-taxed organ. It is a marvel what strength and vitality it has. It is a muscle which must contract and relax from seventy to eighty times a minute throughout the life of the individual. The right half receives the used up blood and sends it to the lungs; the left half receives it purified from the lungs to send it round the body into the remotest corners through the tiny capillaries which are hardly visible to the naked eye.

Anything which lessens its power prevents the blood from arriving at its ultimate destination—the remote recesses of the human frame where the vital processes take place. If through over-eating the stomach, which is adjacent to the heart, presses upon it, it interferes with its work. Stimulants, tea and coffee, poison the heart and unfit it for its duty. Haste, worry, anxiety, grief, emotions of any kind, carried to excess, unfit it for its work. When the heart ceases to beat, it means death, the wreck of the human machine.

Food, Water and Air

A human being cannot live without food, water and air. These are the three essentials. The lungs must be plentifully supplied with pure air, or they cannot give good blood to the body, and every part suffers. The germs of disease cannot be destroyed unless the system through the lungs receives plenty of fresh air. The lungs cannot get this supply unless the air passages are free. If one breathes through the mouth, it means that the air does not enter the lungs either in sufficient amount or in the condition that it should. If the children are mouth breathers their condition should be examined to ascertain the cause.

COLONIAL PUDDING

Bring one quart of milk to the boiling point and add half pint molasses, one tablespoonful butter, one level teaspoonful salt, one-half teaspoonful cinnamon mixed with the molasses. Stir three heaping tablespoonfuls cornmeal with a little cold milk and add to other ingredients; scald for a few moments, then turn into buttered baking dish and set in a moderate oven. When it crusts over, stir from the bottom, sprinkle in some large unseeded raisins, pour one pint of cold milk over it and continue baking for two hours; stir again gently in another half hour and add one pint more of milk; bake one hour longer. Thick, plain cream and scraped maple sugar should accompany this dish, both being served separately, or spoon the pudding into a deep, hot dish and cover with spoonfuls of whipped cream, dotting with preserved cherries or raisins plumped in hot water.

CABINET PUDDING

This is an excellent way to use remains of sponge cake. Butter well a pudding mold holding about three pints. Have ready one and a half cups of fruit—raisins, currants, sliced citron and chopped nuts mixed. Sprinkle the bottom of the mold with the mixed fruit, then put in a layer of stale cake (sponge cake, macaroons or lady-fingers may be used), add another layer of fruit, then of cake, and so continue until the mold is nearly full. Beat three eggs and a third of a cupful of sugar until light, add three cups of hot milk and flavor with vanilla, then pour over the contents of the mold. Steam one and a half hours. Serve hot with sauce.

Currant Jelly Sauce—Boil a cupful of sugar and a third of a cupful of water to rather a thick syrup, add a third of a cupful of beaten currant jelly, and when the jelly is dissolved, add the juice of a lemon and rub through a sieve.

INDUSTRIAL LA CROSSE

A La Crosse industry which has grown to pretentious proportions during the past fifteen years is that of the Staat's Regalia company now located at the corner of George and Rublee streets.

Beginning in a small way in his own residence, E. G. Staats, the proprietor of the firm, has gradually increased the business until at the present time its products are shipped all over the United States, west of Ohio and even as far north as Alaska. The concern in its infancy consisted of but one man, who did all the work. Gradually the business increased creating a demand for workmen skilled in the manufacture of lodge products. Now the firm employs about 35 hands, mostly girls. The factory has just been moved to the large new quarters at George and Rublee streets in order to better handle the large amount of business. The old factory at 1646 Charles street was entirely too small for the increasing business of the concern.

Mr. Staats states that before winter, he expects to increase the number of workmen to at least 75. Though this is the dull season in the pennant department the 35 hands there are being kept very busy daily.

This firm makes a specialty of manufacturing all kinds of articles which are used in lodge work. Everything that a lodge or fraternal organization might use in its business, initiations or outings can be manufactured by this concern. Uniforms, decorations, banners, swords, badges, goats, spanking machines and all the other devices known to every lodge man can be procured at this factory.

The manufacture of lodge articles, requires wood working, printing and tailoring departments. In each of these branches skilled labor is employed. In connection with this department a person thoroughly acquainted with the printing trade is necessary. This firm has the only gas heated embossing press in the city. This press is used in the manufacturing of the badges.

Six to Make Pennant
The largest department of the concern is the pennant department. This was installed about two years ago and at the present time requires the greatest amount of workmen. The process of making a pennant is interesting. Most people believe that a pennant is manufactured entirely by one person while in fact it takes just six persons to every pennant. The first step is the designing. This is done by a designer of unusual ability. The design is originated in the mind of the artist and then executed in felt or other material. The drawn pattern is then taken to a girl who runs over it with a tracer and makes what in the pennant business is known, as a ponce pattern. This is taken by another girl who reproduces the pattern on the shaped pennant, which has been turned out by one of the workers in that department. The letters or designs are then fastened to the pennant or pillow, as the case might be, and taken to the stitching machine where the sewing is done. After the stitching the pennant is pressed, this being the final step. Different persons are employed to do the cutting, stitching or pressing, each one being a skilled laborer in his line of work.

This department is rapidly increasing and the firm lays claim to the title of the leading pennant house in America. Orders are received daily from all over the United States, from the many salesmen that are employed by the firm.

At the present time the Staats Co. is making up an order of uniforms and accoutrements for a Red Men lodge at Treadwell, Alaska, showing that the reputation of the house has already spread to that distant territory of the United States. The firm does only a wholesale business, selling to the wholesale houses and lodges direct.

It is safe to say that in a very few years the city of La Crosse will be known as the home of the finest pennant making concern in the country. The manager of the concern is keeping in close touch with all the new devices and tricks of the trade and as new things of merit are originated, they are installed in the factory.

One of the important developments of the week is the announcement that the R. L. Kenyon company will build a new fire proof factory here before January 1st for the manufacture of their boat tops, cushions and accessories. The company employs 45 people with a weekly payroll of $450 at present and expects to employ 100 by March 1st, next. A site for the new factory is being sought.

The contract for the metal work in the new majestic theater now under erection on Main street between Fifth and Sixth streets has been awarded to the La Crosse Steel Roofing and Corrugating company. This is the busy season in the roofing business and the plant is running on full time with a large force of men.

William Tisch, formerly one of the owners of the Tisch Bros., Cigar Box company is the inventor of a cigar box lid holder, which has become popular. The holders have been manufactured by the La Crosse Stamping and Tool company for Mr. Tisch, as have also the patent cigar box clasp of which Mr. Tisch is also the inventor. Although the holder has been on the market but a little more than a month orders are coming in so rapidly that the patentee may start a factory for the manufacture of them and other novelties of a similar sort.

The G. Helleman Brewing company has begun running two shifts since the hot weather set in, and the regular summer rush is on. It is customary to put on a night crew in the bottling plant during the summer months.

The Oyen Ad Sign system has secured the regular summer contract for bill board advertising of the Coca-Cola company. A handsome sign was completed last week at the corner of Fourth and Main streets and artists are at work on a similar one at the corner of Jay and Fifth streets.

An order for one hundred Egan potato sprayers to be delivered next week, is being turned out at the Egan manufacturing company's plant this week, and the constant increasing business is requiring the addition of new hands constantly. The machines will be consigned to the Great Northern Implement company at Minneapolis.

Egid Hackner, of the Hackner Altar Works, corner Ferry and Thirteenth streets, has just returned from St. Louis, where he secured two large contracts for church altars. The plant is at present running to its full capacity and is behind on orders from lack of space.

Mr. Hackner said today that he was waiting the action of the council with regard to his spur track on Eighteenth street, before he would make any further arrangements for the erection of his proposed new factory, for which plans are now in readiness.

Owing to the rapidly increasing business in the baking line in the summer months, the Ruplin Baking company of this city is contemplating the purchase of an automobile delivery wagon to add to its already extensive delivery service. The wagon is made necessary by the number of women who refuse to bake during the hot weather months.

The Thomas P. Benton & Son factory has a contract for making search lights and equipment for 13 boats to be operated in the west by the Canadian Pacific railway company. The factory is now running full time making searchlights for Vancouver, B. C., Seattle and Portland parties and a 200 light generating set is being made up to be shipped to Fairbanks, Alaska.

The Jos. B. Funke Candy company reports business twenty-five per cent greater than this time last year. The company's facilities and territory have both been extended.

The Advance Bedding company is shipping first class equipment including box springs, down pillows and best mattresses to Sioux City, Ia., where they have the contract for fitting the 150-room West hotel with bedding.

Automatic coal handlers at the Listman Mill company are now in operation. The crushed coal is dumped from the cars into underground lockers, from whence it is carried to the automatic stokers, and the cinders from the burned coal are carried out and into an overhead compartment in the same way, being dumped into the cars to be carried to the dumps.

Men have broken ground for the new 300x75 foot foundry of the La Crosse Plow company to be constructed on Second street between Vine and Pine, adjoining other property of the Plow company.

The Best Type of Men in America are buying Apple Orchards in the Famous Bitter Root Valley! Why?

SOME BUY FOR AN INVESTMENT. Charles Heights Orchards in the Bitter Root Valley, Montana, are the safest kind of an investment. The greatest fruit land in the world, increasing in value every year. Estimating from the present prices of developed orchards, every acre will be worth more than twice its original cost in five years. As the original cost covers the development of the land and delivery of a bearing orchard in five years, the attractiveness of the investment is obvious. The profit or dividend on an investment in ten acres averages from $600 to $1,200 the fifth year, $3,800 to $5,800 the tenth year with a rapid increase up to the twentieth year.

SOME BUY FOR A SUMMER RESORT. What could be more desirable than a cottage or a shack on your own orchard in the delightful climate of the Bitter Root Valley in the Rocky Mountains, where the mountain torrents abound in the gamest and most palatable of fish—the "Red Throat" trout, and where all kinds of large game known to the Rockies make hunting the greatest sport?

SOME BUY TO SAFEGUARD THE FUTURE. Is there anyone who would not be happy in the thought that no matter what happens to his business, that no matter if the worst of panics should overtake us, that in case of unexpected inability to work for a living, that in the day of his old age or what not, he has a profit-producing orchard and a home to which he can retire and be prosperous and happy.

SOME BUY FOR A HOME. Wouldn't you be contented with a home in the mountains, among the best of neighbors, close to railroads, good schools, churches, excellent roads and on a profitable orchard where the work of pruning, irrigating and cultivating is light, pleasant and healthful, leaving plenty of time to live?

SOME MAKE IT A BUSINESS. That the growing of McIntosh Red Apples or Transcendent Crabs in the Bitter Root is most profitable is sustained by present growers in the Valley who have been there for ten to thirty years. The standard ten-acre orchard, five years old, yields on the average 800 boxes of apples, six years old 1600 boxes, with an increase up to the twentieth year. The sale price per box f. o. b. the Valley is $1.25 to $1.75 per box.

SURE CROPS—NO PESTS. There has not been a failure in the Valley during the thirty odd years fruit has been grown there. It is the only fruit-growing section in which there has never been a pest of any kind nor an injurious frost. No crop insurance is necessary in the Valley. THIS COMPANY OFFERS a tract of "Bench Land" on the west side of Bitter Root River known as the Charles Heights Orchards, located on the Northern Pacific Railway—the best strip of land in the Valley. We will sell 10-acre orchards, clear the land, work it up, plant it to apples, irrigate and cultivate it during the next five years and turn it over to the purchaser a bearing orchard in September of the fifth year. We will then continue to care for the land and crop for ten per cent of the net yearly profits as long as desired. Or we will sell the undeveloped land cleared and ready for the plow in 100-acre tracts to one party or a company of individuals who wish to plant and develop their own property, under the direction of our expert horticulturist. Permanent water rights without cost.

A TRIP TO THE BITTER ROOT. Send at once for our beautifully illustrated literature giving full information about this wonderful valley. It will picture and describe your own ideal of a pleasant home, a profitable investment and an independent life. In this literature we give facts and figures, verified by the best authorities and actual growers of the Valley. If you can take a trip with us to this beautiful country, you will find our statements and figures correct. Send for our proposition, which guarantees it or pays for a trip to the Valley.

EPWORTH LEAGUES ELECT OFFICERS

The West Avenue Chapter Epworth league entertained the Chapters of the First, Caledonia and Onaska Leagues last evening. The program which was largely musical was exceptionally fine. Miss Nessler captivated the gathering. Piano duets were rendered by Misses Lavake and Vance of First church and Misses Aiken and Merrill which were cordially received. The Wesley Male Quartet, (Messrs Best, Earl Lockman, R. Oakes, John Otten) of the West Ave. Church appearing in trim for their engagement at the La Crosse district convention to be held at Reedsburg, June 15 to 17 were immense. It was the consensus of opinion that this quartette is the coming quartette of La Crosse and perhaps of the state. Their voices have blend, the young men are vivacious and their entire lack of affectation make them popular favorites.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year. Pres. W. A. Lockman, Vice President, W. M. Stephenson, Caledonia St. secretary, Flossie Merrill, treasurer, L. D. King, First church.

Mr. H. Miller of First church presented the theme of the evening "How to improve our league the coming year."

Ice cream and cake were served after the program.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, June 12.—Although a few stocks showed fractional declines a majority of the list made material advances and the general tone of the market was decidedly strong. The industrial group continued increasing in prominence. A number of them made sharp advances in the first ten minutes. At the end of the first quarter hour prices were generally well maintained.

11 a. m.—Trading in the first hour and a half was decidedly mixed. Profit taking sales in large volumes in some stocks were offset to an extent by buying through banking houses of leading standard issues, causing early strength in groups, while at the same time other stocks sustained material declines. Reading became weak, falling over a point from its highest and about the same declines were sustained in Union Pacific after showing early strength.

The heaviest selling for long accounts was in Southern Pacific. Amalgamated Copper lost nearly a point during the forenoon and a fractional reaction occurred in a number of the more active stocks. Steel common was one of the few stocks that showed a net gain at 11:30 o'clock.

INDIAN FIGHTER WANTS A MATCH

La Crosse was unaware of the fact that for a time yesterday there was in "our midst" a real prize fighter and wrestler and an Indian at that, Indian Joe Schlidt, or War Eagle as he is known in the squared arena or on the mat, has a record of which he is proud. He is a fighter of some repute, having gone the ten round route with Tommy Burns, in December, 1904, at Ballard, Wash., Burns getting the decision on points. The records give the fight to Burns as a knockout in the sixth round, and the redskin says that he has tried in vain to have the record corrected. He has fought men of national reputation such as Jim Burns, Ike Hayes, Abdul the Terrible Turk, Jim Tremble and Tor Costello. He had a match scheduled with Big Al Kaufman, but it fell through.

The big redskin prefers the wrestling game, however, and is so proficient at it, having met such men as Beell, Westergaard, Parr, Rooney, McLeod, Ordeman and Gotch. He also boxed with Dr. Roller, the man who put up such a good exhibition against Gotch recently and was greatly surprised to think that he has not made good at the fighting game.

War Eagle was also a football player, having played halfback on the Carlisle team of 1899.

Indian Joe is a heavyweight, being able to train down to about 220 pounds. He is in the city trying to arrange for a wrestling match. As there are no wrestlers here who would be willing to take him on, he is thinking of bringing Theodore Peters, the well known St. Paul man here for a bout.

EMBEZZLER PURSUED BY A BIG POSSE

WILLISTON, N. D., June 12.—Will T. Poe, former city auditor, and who came here from Wyoming, W. Va., is being hunted in the Bad Lands of North Dakota while the officers of three states are trying to close in on him and capture him alive.

Poe was under $8,000 bonds for embezzlement and forgery, and his case was to have been called today.
